

LEADING THE CORPORATE FUTURE

21st Century Skills for Changing Corporate Leadership

WORKSHOP OVERVIEW

'leading the corporate future'

TARGET AUDIENCE

In-house Corporate Leadership Teams* that:

- appreciate and seek influence from leadership for the changing world
- wish to create a customised changing future, rather than react to an imposed one, ensuring a focussed competitive corporate edge
- looking to move 'beyond' the corporate norm, applying that to the organisation's corporate pillars

'leading the corporate future' requires the senior leader to be visible, active and consistent while contributing to and sponsoring this team initiative*

AIM

'leading the corporate future' provides a corporate experience of discovery* while working through 'what is' and 'what can be', in alignment with the changing business landscape.

discovery of self, team, environment, priorities and possibility*

OBJECTIVES

By the end of this session, you will be able to:

- define change as a process, highlighting opportunities rarely explored previously
- list the changing business world's priorities
- plot your individual and organization's risk level with change

- apply change-ready leadership competencies to your organisational needs
- collate a databank of insights into the organisation's operational approach
- customise the organization's environmental context for adaptation

DELIVERABLES

- Change Readiness Assessment of each Leader, and organisation for the changing business landscape
- Applied leadership skillsets that most likely have not been utilized previously
- Databank of Evidence of aligned (+) and misaligned (-) corporate activities and approaches
- Summary of 'keep doing, start doing, stop doing' actions

KEY TOPICS

- leadership for the 21st century
- an emerging change model
- change-readiness skillset
- application to your organization

METHODOLOGY

- in-depth exploration and collaboration
- learning new leadership skills
- corporate analysis in changing terms
- collation and presentation of findings
- action planning

TESTIMONIALS

1. Quite a compelling initiative, and one that is to be taken forward I complement you for the way you managed to make that deep message acceptable and real for some hardcore business people we had in the room; definitely not an easy task.

JJ, Manager, Dubai

2. No professional leadership book has touched the depths that this philosophy does. It goes well beyond textbook theory and it's more than your standard workshop. One particular thing strikes me – it's the only resource I've come across that merges theory, context and reality so effortlessly.

Damien O'Donoghue, General Manager, Australia

3. 'embers' has opened my mind to a whole new world of corporate and personal thinking and leadership. The quality of the databank we produced in the 2-day period was exemplary.

Neale Proctor, Managing Director, Lagos